

«Legal Systems of Today's World»

1. Comparative studies as a method, science and academic discipline
2. The value and perspectives of comparative studies
3. Types of research in comparative studies and their application
4. Legal system and legal family: concept and differences
5. Features of the legal system
6. The structure of the legal system
7. General characteristics of the legal map of the world
8. Classification and typology of legal systems
9. The classification of legal families
10. Subnational legal systems
11. Supranational (international) legal systems
12. The impact of globalization on legal families
13. Mixed legal systems
14. The main characteristics of the European law
15. The European legal tradition and its impact on legal systems
16. The impact of European Union law on national legal systems
17. The main characteristics of the Ukraine legal system
18. The legal system of Ukraine among the legal systems of today
19. General characteristics of the Romano-Germanic legal family
20. The history of the Romano-Germanic legal family
21. Features of the Romano-Germanic legal family
22. The main stages of development of the Romano-Germanic legal family
23. The role of science (universities) in the development of Romano-Germanic law
24. The connection of the Romano-Germanic legal family with Roman law
25. The influence of canon law on the formation of Romano-Germanic law
26. The emergence and reform of civil law
27. The place of the Romano-Germanic legal family on the legal map of the world
28. Public and private law in the Romano-Germanic legal family
29. Sources of law of the Romano-Germanic legal family
30. Norms of law in the Romano-Germanic family
31. Legal acts in the Romano-Germanic legal family
32. Code as a source of law in the Romano-Germanic family
33. General principles of law in the Romano-Germanic legal family
34. Custom in the system of sources of Romano-Germanic law
35. Legal doctrine in the Romano-Germanic legal family
36. Judicial practice in the Romano-Germanic legal family
37. The impact of the European Court for Human Rights on the Romano-Germanic legal family
38. Legal systems of the Scandinavian countries, their features
39. Sources of law of the Scandinavian countries
40. Legal systems of Latin American countries, their features
41. Sources of law in Latin America

42. General characteristics of the Anglo-American legal family
43. Features of the Anglo-American legal family
44. The main stages of development of the English legal system
45. The emergence and reforms of common law
46. Common law: concepts and features
47. The law of justice and its relationship with common law
48. Concepts and types of sources of Anglo-American law
49. The place of the Anglo-American legal family on the legal map of the world
50. Precedent as a source of law in the Anglo-American legal family
51. Types and impact of precedent in the Anglo-American legal family
52. Sources of common law
53. Statute as a source of law in the family of Anglo-American law
54. The custom in Anglo-American law
55. Legal doctrine in the Anglo-American legal family
56. The role of the principles of law in the Anglo-American legal family
57. General characteristics of the US legal system
58. Sources of American law
59. Modern US legal system, its features
60. The impact of the US Supreme Court on the Anglo-American legal family today
61. Features of the legal systems of Canada
62. General characteristics of the Australia legal system
63. General characteristics of the New Zealand legal system
64. Legal systems of Canada, Australia and New Zealand: comparative characteristics
65. General characteristics of religious legal systems
66. The role of legal doctrine in religious legal systems
67. Legal doctrine in the religious legal systems
68. Muslim (Islamic) law, its characteristics
69. Sources of Muslim law
70. Modern Muslim law legal systems
71. Hindu law, its characteristics
72. Sources of Hindu law
73. Jewish law, its characteristics
74. Sources of Jewish law
75. The legal system of Israel
76. Canon law, its characteristics
77. Sources of canon law
78. Application of canon law in the modern world
79. General characteristics of traditional legal systems
80. The role of custom in traditional legal systems
81. Legal systems of the Far East
82. Formation of the legal system of China
83. The legal system of China, its sources
84. Formation of the legal system of Japan
85. The modern legal system of Japan, its sources
86. Legal systems of African countries

87. The role of custom in the African countries
88. Religious and traditional legal systems: a comparative characteristic
89. Romano-Germanic and Anglo-American legal systems: a comparative characteristic
90. Trends in the development of legal systems in the modern world